

KathyLynn Gariboldi

Kathy-Lynn Gariboldi, Principle Designer and CEO of reInventedSpaces, a decade-old residential design firm in Raleigh, NC, is proud to present the first volume of Dressy Drapes Design Book. This book was initially inspired by The Metropolitan Museum of Art's special exhibition of Mrs. Kennedy's iconic fashions: The White House Years – Selections from the John F. Kennedy Library and Museum, presented by The Costume Institute in 2001.

This book pays tribute to Jacqueline Kennedy's iconic fashion style and her dedication to the arts, interior design, and American History. Transferring these apparel designs into home textiles is a unique way to incorporate elegant fashions into the home.

Kathy-Lynn is a recognized, award winning designer and has provided full service interior design to many clients across the U.S. She has held positions on the Board of Directors for the Interior Design Society and the Alliance of Interior Designers. Kathy-Lynn holds a Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree and her career includes positions as Art Director and Creative Director for leading edge companies.

Upon relocation in 2005 to Raleigh, NC, Kathy-Lynn established her company, reInventedSpaces LLC based on her love of interior design. Kathy-Lynn, always an artist at heart, considers interior design an art form and creates beautiful and functional environments with color, texture, scale, and pattern. She prides herself on being able to work with any homeowner to find the best solutions for their space and budget.

In 2011, reInventedSpaces joined forces with Blue Ribbon Residential Construction. They created a design center near downtown Raleigh, which represents samples and materials from every valued supplier. Over the years, they have developed a streamlined design/build process that offers their customers a rewarding remodel experience. Both companies are dedicated to creating complete, cohesive, and functional spaces, blending the client's vision with their talents and expertise.
